Several Pittsburgh boats are reported to be aground at Wheeling, among them being the Sam Brown and Fred Wilson. It is thought that the ice will not harm them, as they can be floated safely with high water.

The tows of the Joe B. Williams, Sam Clarke, Smoky City and Boaz, now on the way to New Orleans, amount to 106 coalboats and 18 model barges of steel rails. Not a serious or even slight ac-cident has happened to any tow that has left Louisville for the South since the first tow left on the last rise.

The shipments of coal made by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company since the resumption of navigation is estimated at about 2,000,000 bushels, and considering the quantity the losses have been light, hardly up to an avorage. So far as we are advised there have been no losses, thur far, by the Louisville and New Orleans boats, which is something unusual.
